

AT GALESBURG, ILL.

The President Puts in a Very Busy Day.

HE MEETS HIS OLD COMRADES.

Cornerstone laid, speech making, viewing a parade and attending two banquets—details of the trip from Peoria to Burlington—still traveling westward.

Burlington, Oct. 9.—At Peoria, yesterday morning, Mayor Clarke and a delegation of prominent citizens called on the president and escorted him to the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy depot. A brass band, Peoria post G. A. R., and a company of local militia headed the procession. The president delivered a short address.

Elise Leche Lyde, the child actress, presented to the president a beautiful bouquet. The president stooped and kissed her.

Just before the train reached Galesburg it was stopped and the president took a look at the beautifully decorated engine and spoke to the engineer, Frank Hilton, who was a member of the One Hundred and Second Illinois regiment, part of the president's brigade.

The president, after shaking hands with the engineer and fireman, signified a wish to take a ride on the locomotive. "I'll get up and ride with you, if you'll keep me on the track," said the president, as he climbed into the cab.

After a run of five miles the train was stopped and the president shook hands again with the engineer and fireman and left the cab. He and his two companions stood at the side of the track while the train was pulled forward until the locomotive was abreast of the party. They climbed quickly on board, the signal to start was given, and the journey to Galesburg was resumed. The train slowed up at the city limits and it was about 1 o'clock when it pulled into the station here.

At the station here the president was met by Mayor Stevens and a local committee, who acted as his escort to the Union hotel. There was an enormous crowd at the station and lining the streets, and the progress of the procession of carriages through the streets was marked with continued cheerings. At the Union hotel the president was taken to a private parlor, and in a short time arrangements were made for a brief reception to distinguished and local citizens. Gen. Post made the introduction. The reception lasted only a few minutes and the president then returned to his private parlor.

At 1:50 Gen. Post announced that the procession was ready to move. The president's party then left the hotel and was driven about the public square to the stand which had been erected facing Main street. The crowd was packed so densely in front of the stand that it was with difficulty the head of the procession forced its way through. The first part of the procession was composed of small children of whom there were fully one in line. The president stood at the front of the platform, his hat in his right hand, bowing to the children as they passed. All of the children carried little flags.

Behind the school children walked the veterans of Gen. Harrison's old brigade. They stopped a dozen times and cheered the president. As the veterans passed, the stand the president's eyes were filled with tears. The review concluded at 11:30 a. m.

From the reviewing stand the president was driven to the court house where a stand had been erected from which the president addressed the assembled multitude in quite a lengthy speech.

The president was followed by Secretary Tracy, who made a brief speech, confining his remarks chiefly to the silver question in its relation to the agricultural problem. (See Grosvenor, of Ohio, and others followed Mr. Tracy. At the conclusion of the speech-making a column was formed and the president proceeded to Ku's college, across the street, where the corner-stone of the new hall was laid.

At the close of the ceremony the president was driven to the hotel, where he was the guest of the local committee at luncheon. The president had to hurry through luncheon for he was due at the first brigade reunion at 2:30, and it was after 1 o'clock when he sat down at the table. After luncheon, and while he was preparing for the reunion, the president received an old lady, a sister of his former instructor, Joseph N. Porter, who, much to the president's entertainment, showed him a letter written by him to his instructor in 1848, when the future president was but 10 years old.

It was nearly 6 o'clock when the president, under escort of Col. Dan Dustin, of Chicago, was driven from the hotel to the opera house, where the brigade reunion was to be held. Secretary Tracy and the governor remained at the hotel. What the president entered the opera house he was greeted with cheers, which were renewed when he took a seat on the stage. Col. Dustin, addressing the president, announced to him his unanimous re-election as president of the association. The announcement was received with cheers and applause. The president, acknowledging the greeting, addressed his old comrades at some length. He spoke in an easy, conversational tone.

At the conclusion of the remarks of the president, Col. Dustin introduced Representative Henderson, of Illinois, who made a brief speech. At its conclusion the veterans filed across the stage and shook hands with the president. Many of the greetings seemed to effect the president deeply, and his voice broke more than once as he acknowledged them. From the opera house the president was driven to the hotel where he retired to his room to obtain a little rest. At night he attended a banquet given by the Phi Delta Theta society at college hall, and later a banquet given by the first brigade at the First Christian church.

From the banquet room the president was driven direct to his train which pulled out for Burlington. The journey was made at the rate of forty-five miles an hour.

The president and his party arrived here at 10 o'clock. They were welcomed by the mayor of the city, George A. Duncan, who expressed regret at the absence of the governor. The president was then taken to the rooms of the Commercial club where an informal reception was tendered him. The president shook hands with several hundred people during the reception. From the club the president was driven back to the station and at about 11 o'clock the train pulled out for Ottumwa.

UNRESTRICTED RECIPROCITY.

Canada's Minister of Justice Says It Would Kill Her Manufacturers.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 9.—Sir John Thompson, minister of justice, arrived at Antigonish Tuesday and was presented with an address. In reply he referred to the trade question. He said the government was opposed to unrestricted reciprocity, which would ruin Canada's manufacturers, but was in favor of reciprocity in natural products. This he said, the United States would not accept. The opposition wished the government to go to Washington and say that Canadians would starve without reciprocity. This was no way to make a bargain.

The government would not do this, but Messrs. Cartwright, Winan, Chilton and Longley had gone to Washington to beg for reciprocity. Within four weeks of their visit the United States had adopted the highest tariff they ever had, and relations with the United States were worse than ever. Sir John said the government was finding new markets in Japan, China and the West Indies.

He stated that during the past two years, since the West India line of steamers had been subsidized, Canada had sent more farm products to the West Indies than had sent to the United States during any two years of reciprocity treaty. This, he declared, showed the success of a vigorous trade policy.

Some Justice Abroad.

New York, Oct. 9.—Mr. Meyer Jossens received a dispatch yesterday dated Berlin, from his son Joseph, saying that the latter had been acquitted of the charge made against him by three drunken students with whom he had quarreled for an insult to him because he was an American. They accused young Jossens of saying, "I sneeze at your emperor," a political crime for which the extreme penalty is ten years imprisonment in a German fortress. Mr. Jossens gave bonds for his reappearance and came home. He returned on his father's advice and stood trial, being acquitted.

Election in Connecticut.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 9.—Official returns from the town elections in Connecticut come in slowly. These are to a large degree local contests, and are often more personal and domestic than political, though the result is always looked for with interest. Of 119 towns at present reported, forty-nine elect Republican town clerks and board of selectmen, thirty-nine go Democratic and twenty-two are divided. Last year these same towns stood fifty-two Republican, thirty-two Democratic and twenty-six divided.

Quiet on the Erie Railroad.

New York, Oct. 9.—Everything is quiet on the Erie railroad. Yesterday was set for the strike in case the demand made by the employees of the road upon Second Vice President Thomas A. Hughes for shorter hours was not granted. It is understood that the board of directors are in favor of meeting the men on a fair basis.

To Control the Cotton Mills.

MONTREAL, Oct. 9.—Messrs. A. F. Gaul and David Maurice are engaged working out of all the cotton mills working on gray goods in the country, so as to place them under one ownership. LONDON DOCKERS.

Their Trouble Growing Very Serious.

UNION MEN TO BE LOCKED OUT.

The Ship Owners' Federation Will Open a Register and Form a Free Labor League—Distress in Ireland Exaggerated—Various Other Foreign News.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The statements made by the ship owners and dock officials in regard to the trouble with the Dockers' union, confirms the impression which has rapidly been gaining ground, that the quarrel was growing too bitter for much longer endurance. President Mann, of the union, personally favors concessions, and would prefer to avoid a rupture, but he is wholly unable to control the men whose heads are turned by their former successes. The dockers are, without authority of the union officials, preparing against the threatened lockout by placing a guard around the docks to prevent the introduction of non-union men.

In reference to the dispute between the Allan and Wilson-Hill Steamship companies and the Dockers' union, Mr. Bessett Hill, of the latter firm, says in an interview that his associates will not submit to a continuance of such annoyances, especially at a time when work is slack, as it is in the winter season. The Ship Owners' Federation will at once open a register and form a free labor league, with a provision for a sick fund and other advantages. The union men will then all be locked out.

Mr. Morgan, secretary of the Joint docks, declares in an interview that matters have become so bad that the company feel compelled to end the situation. Messrs. Tillet and Mann cannot control the men, who strike without the sanction of the leaders. The dock companies have tried to work amicably with the union, but have found it impossible to do so.

Distress in Ireland Exaggerated.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Mr. Balfour, chief secretary for Ireland, writes to the London News as follows: "I have received endless reports and communications of all sorts regarding the potato crop in the west of Ireland. No positive or final conclusion can be formed until the potatoes are dug toward the end of October—but all testimony of any value, and which obviously is not doctored for political purposes, appears to indicate that the cry of general famine is wholly absurd. Although in particular localities the failure is undoubtedly serious, the measures taken by the government will, with a little question, suffice to deal with any real distress which may be beyond the power of the ordinary poor law machinery to meet."

Reform in Belgium.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The movement for universal suffrage is attaining tremendous strength in Belgium, and much indignation has been aroused by the announcement that the Belgian parliament intend to amend the Belgian constitution, a proposition embodying the reform. RIOT IN PHILADELPHIA.

It May Prove a Murder and Probably a Double Murder.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—A riot which will undoubtedly prove a murder and probably a double murder occurred at No. 745 South Seventh street early yesterday morning. Pasquale Danico and Donato Amarosa and Michael Palardina, engaged in a fight, and the two were arrested by Policemen Mitchell and Morrow, of the Second district, and locked up.

Shortly after being placed in the cell means were heard by the trucker, who, upon making an investigation, found that Palardina had been wounded in the fight. He was suffering intensely and when examined it was found that his intestines were protruding from an ugly knife wound in the abdomen.

While the physicians were at work at Palardina, his wife was brought in. She was badly slashed across the hands and back. It was learned that both husband and wife were injured at the same time. The men had been playing cards at Palardina's house, and quarrelled over the payment of a box of beer.

She pulled the child's head off and threw it on the ground and threw the body into a chicken coop. The crime was discovered this morning and the girl arrested. REEMELIN'S REPLY TO CAMPBELL.

He Makes a Demand on the Governor for an Immediate Trial. He Asks That Action Be Taken Before the Meeting of the Legislature—Other Ohio Dispatches.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 9.—Yesterday Governor Campbell received the following letter from Louis Reemelin, president of the board of public improvements of Cincinnati. It is of deep interest to the citizens of Ohio, inasmuch as it embraces his statement of the trouble that led to the calling of an extra session of the legislature.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 7, 1890.

Hon. James E. Campbell, Governor of Ohio:

DEAR SIR:—Ever since you sent me the uncalled for, unexpected and brutal telegram branding me as dishonest and demanding my resignation as a member of the board of public improvements of this city, I have waited impatiently for you to file, or cause to be filed, charges against me for dishonesty, or official corruption, in the court competent to determine the truth or falsity of the charges. If you have wholly failed to do so,

If you are correctly reported in this morning's papers, the legislature you have convened in extraordinary session is declared by you to be entitled to try these charges, and is already discredited by you.

Where, when and how do you propose to have this matter determined, as in common fairness between man and man it ought to be?

You and I are members of the legal profession. My reputation for honesty is worth more to me and those depending on me than money, official position or political advancement. If your belief in my dishonesty is well founded, and is not the insane, criminal folly of an ambitious politician, then I am unfit to practice law, and it is your duty to secure my disbarment, as well as my removal from the position to which you have appointed me on this board.

I do not propose to permit you or anybody else to wreck my reputation for honesty or destroy my future, whatever may be your political ambition. I have honestly and faithfully discharged all the duties of the office to which you appointed me. I have not in any shape or form taken a single dollar to which I was not legally entitled as salary. And in no case, at no time, have I been guilty of any form of dishonesty or official misconduct.

I demand, as I have a right to demand of you as governor of this state and of an individual, that you make your charges good or confess that you are mistaken.

In order to do this I make you this proposition, that you select the court and the method of trying these charges at once, and I will waive service and enter appearance, and go to trial on the merits in twenty-four hours from the time you file the charges. Or, I will enter a libel suit against you in the courts here, not for money, but simply to test the truth of the charges, and have them heard and determined by a jury in the community in which you say the belief in my dishonesty is universal, and will go to trial at once.

I do not propose to be railroaded out of office on false charges. I court a full, free, open, fair investigation of the discharge of my official duties, of why you appointed me, and what you have done since my appointment as to this board, and further I court a full and free investigation of the causes that have produced your action of calling the legislature in extraordinary session, in branding me as dishonest, and of seeking the removal of the board of your own appointment, created by the legislature, and which board has refused to be the tool for corrupt purposes of those who may now be controlling your action, and of whom you may be the unconscious tool.

Let all of the facts be known, and it will be demonstrated that your brand of dishonesty placed on me was either the act of ignorance or that of insane political ambition.

Let this investigation be made, and the charges tried before the legislature meets, as they can be, so that it may act intelligently, and not predicate legislation on rumors or charges wholly false, without investigation, and be guilty of the folly of repeating its own laws without just cause therefore.

Awaiting your reply, yours respectfully,

LOUIS REEMELIN.
